LISTENING:

Section 1 was about convo between a woman and a real estate agent guy who is looking for renting a property in town for few months in the city.

Section 2 was about two students talking about music therapy and its related data when they tested on animals. This section had some scope for keen observation.

Section 3 was also related to music such that how kids can be involved with music and two people were brainstorming about types of activities that are related to music for nursery group kids. This section was little bit challenging.

Section 4 was about a person explaining people about various photographers and their early work in a photography museum. This section had straightforward answers if observed with good ears!!

All the sections had just ONE WORD AND/OR NUMBERS, Pick the right alphabet answers only.

Listening:

Section1: A person calling for a information about her holiday apartment which she rented (useful things inside the house, and other activities outside)

Section2: Library mapping section (given map)

Section3: 2 students having a meeting with professor about academic essays

Section4: Academic lecture (couldn't remember what it was about)

Listening was terrible since we used the typical old recorder in a big classroom with high volume and me sitting at the back having the bouncing sound, it made me lose about 6 answers until my hearing adapted to the second part. Section 1 was easy: a girl calling to a moving company to do arrangements, then the second (my nightmare): there was a map of a gallery and they were describing the first and second floor, I lost all the first floor but tried to write important words to guess the answers. After that I remained angry until the beginning of part three, it was about a man who was receiving advice for an acting class he was organizing and the comments on the books used for the class. The fourth part was fairly easy, just one word, the subject was the sense of smell, psychological implications in humans. I did mention to the test center supervisor that they needed to improve sound quality and that feedback about the session might help them see this is a real issue.

LISTENING:

It was a rapid fire round. I am worried about the result. Examiner asked too many questions one after another.

Part 1:

Question about my job,

Do you like pop music, who is your favourite pop star?

Would you like to attend live concert or recorded music of pop star.

Question about neighbour:

importance of neighbour

-How neighbour helped you once?

-Do you have a neighbour?

-would you prefer to have your neighbour to be young or old?why?

-Why people prefer stranger to discuss about their problems instead of sharing it with friends and family.

- Is it beneficial for people to discuss about their problems only?

Part 2:

A conversation with a person you didn't know.

Part3:

Questions related to Social media.

-importance of social media

-why old people feel disconnected to social media.

-why people believe in making friends over internet instead of face to face.

-don't remember other questions but its all related to social media.
